Social and Personal

ONE of the most brilliant of debutantes, Albert Y. Waddey, her brother, received with Mrs. Warren, who wore a yellow and brown, with a pearl and crystal tunic, and carried violets and gardenias.

The debutante had on an extremely pretty white satin frock draped with crystal and trimmed with bands of marabout. She held an old-fashioned nosegay of pink rosebuds, sweet peas, lilies and gardenias.

The decorations revealed a background of green relieved at points of advantage with hanging baskets of flowers. In the dining-room, where supper was served at 11:30, pink roses were used.

Musical Tea.

An event of great interest to society at large will be a musical tea to be given at the Jefferson Hotel on the afternoon of December 12, from 3 to 7 o'clock. A delightful program has been arranged. Polk Miller will tell a number of his Southern folk lore stories between solo song numbers to be rendered by Miss Frances West, Mrs. Clifford M. Miller, Webb Hill and Douglas Gordon, and a sextet of stringed instruments will be led by Frank Cosby. Shepherd Webb will be the pianist of the afternoon.

Tea will be served by debutantes and younger members of society, and names of patronesses will be announced later. The tea will be under the direction of Miss Mary W. Lewis, chairman; Mrs. L. H. Buttrick, Mrs. H. L. Cabell, Miss Lucy Lay, Miss Annie Rose Walker and Miss Kathleen Bruce.

Of Interest in Richmond.

Of decided interest to friends and relatives in Richmond, among whom the bride and groom, is the announcement here of the wedding of Miss Lella Winston, daughter of Fendall G. Winston, of Minneapolis, to Dwight Keyes Yerxa, son of Mrs. M. W. Yerxa, who now has his home in Pittsburgh, Pa. The ceremony was performed November 22, in Westminster Church, Minneapolis, Rev. J. E. Bushnell, D. D., officiating.

The church was decorated with American Beauty roses, palms, smilax and altar candles. The aisles were arched of flowers, bronze vases at each pew being filled with roses. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played as a procession.

Miss Winston came in with her father and was given in marriage by him. She was gowned in white satin charmeuse, trimmed with point lace and clusters of orange blossoms. Her lace veil, worn by many brides of the family, fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

She was attended by her honor matrons, Mrs. James S. Thurston and Mrs. Louis B. Newell, wearing light blue crepe meteor and chiffon, and Miss Lillian Winston, in blue satin and chiffon. Both matrons and honor maid had on big blue hats and bouquets of long-stemmed American Beauties.

The church ceremony was followed by a reception at the Winston home, on Clifton Place, Minneapolis. The groom, Mr. Yerxa, was best man, and the bride and groom for a wedding trip and their new home at Sewickly, Pa. A bridal dinner was served to members of the two families, the bride party and a few intimate friends.

After the departure of the bride and groom, the bride's party, a large dinner was served to members of the two families, the bride party and a few intimate friends.

THIS GIRL OPERATES WIRELESS ON LINERMiss Packer Is First Woman to Occupy Such Position on Ocean Vessel.

New York, November 30.—The first woman wireless telegraph operator on an ocean steamer, Miss Granelia Packer, of Jacksonville, Fla., took her place at 10:30 yesterday morning in the little office assigned to her on board the Clyde liner Mohawk.

The ship was not due to sail until 1 o'clock, but two hours before the decks were crowded with passengers eager to see the girl begin her duties. She was dressed neatly in a blue uniform, consisting of a skirt and jacket ornamented with brass buttons. On her head she wore a dark blue cap.

"I'd rather not talk," she said, "I can understand how this work in a woman's hands, and especially on board ship, is a novelty, but really I'd rather do my duty than to be the center of curiosity." She was asked what she thought of the wireless telegraph, and she replied that she thought it was a very useful invention.

"What would you do if you were placed in the same position as was Jack Bins, operator on the steamer Republic?" asked a reporter.

"What would I do? What would any one do? I think I should stick to my post, that's all. People never realize what they are capable of until a test is applied. I've often been asked what I'd do in case of danger, and I've always replied that I'd stick to my post. I hope I shall."

"Besides fulfilling my duties, I have the reputation of being a very good operator in my hands. I mean that not one has ever been found lacking at the call of necessity, and I can't be the one to spoil the record."

Miss Packer is twenty-two years old. She was born in Philadelphia. Nearly all of her life has been spent in Florida, where she has been a member of the Post Office at Sanford, Fla.

"I took up telegraphy more as a joke than anything else," she said. "We girls had sent telegrams to each other. And then later, when my eyes troubled me and I got to thinking of choosing a vocation, I took up telegraphy because it is no tax on the eyes."

"Last June I came to New York to visit relatives and to take vocal lessons. I went to the office of the United Wireless Company and took a course of lessons. In October I went home, and shortly after thinking of choosing a vocation, I took up telegraphy because it is no tax on the eyes."

Miss Packer's first real work on board the Mohawk was when, a few minutes after 7 o'clock last evening, she called up the station at 42 Broadway and sent the following distance report:

On board S. S. Mohawk, November 29, V. (the Mohawk's call), seventy miles south of Sandy Hook at 7 P. M. (Signed) D. N.

Soon after Miss Packer had received the "O. K." for her report, several operators had called up the New York Station and asked who "D. N." was. When it was explained that "D. N." was the girl, the station was closed.

Scott was hurried out of town in an automobile, and was put on a train at Bonaville, ten miles east of town, bound for Lynchburg. The authorities, doubtless acted wisely in getting the negro out of Roanoke in a hurry.

The verdict is severely criticized by the public generally, although the law does not permit the judge to impose a severer sentence than that given. It was proved that Scott, who attempted to arrest Scott for stealing brasses on the railroad yard, had no right to make such an arrest, and that the killing was not premeditated.

Arrives in Lynchburg. Lynchburg, Va., November 30.—Pomp Scott, the negro murderer who was sentenced to eighteen years in prison in Roanoke to-day for the murder of Conductor Spence, of the Virginian Railway, was brought here this afternoon and lodged in jail for safe-keeping.

Dead Man Was From Chicago. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Roanoke, Va., November 30.—A. W. Link, the traveling man, who killed himself in a Roanoke hotel yesterday, was a Chicago man. The coroner received a telegram to-day from A. J. Link, at Chicago, asking that the body be embalmed and held for orders as to disposition.
